Band Biography

Swiss electronic duo Yello formed by Boris Blank (keyboards, sampling, percussion, backing vocals) and Carlos Perón (Tapes) in the late 1970s. Dieter Meier (vocals, lyrics), son of a millionaire banker, a professional gambler, and member of the Swiss national golf team, was brought in when the two founders realised that they needed a singer.

In early 1983, just after release of "You Gotta Say Yes to Another Excess", Perón left Yello in order to pursue a solo career.

Yello's first release was the 1979 single "I.T. Splash".

The band is known for their 1985 single "Oh Yeah" which featured in the films Ferris Bueller's Day Off, The Secret of My Success, American Pie Presents: The Book of Love, K-9, and as the theme song for the character Duffman on The Simpsons.

Their 1988 single "The Race" peaked at number 7 on the UK Singles Chart, and was also featured in the film Nuns on the Run.
